

Information is oxygen.

A company is a machine that converts information into decisions. When information moves freely, decisions get smarter, faster, closer to the problem. When it gets hoarded, decisions get slower, dumber, further away.

Default to sharing. Numbers. Context. Mistakes. Plans. The messy middle. A team starved of context will starve of judgment.

| If you have to ask twice, the air is wrong, not you.

