

Flatland is not for everyone.

If you came here to be promoted into management, this is the wrong company. We are not building a ladder. We are building a workshop.

If your career identity is the size of your team, you will struggle here. If you need permission to act, you will struggle here.

You grow here by solving harder problems, and then harder ones after that. Not by being given more people. This is harder to put on a LinkedIn profile. It is also the only kind of growth that compounds.

| A selection, said out loud.

