

What dies. What comes alive.

When Builder is the only role, a lot of things die quietly.

"That is not my job."

The manager as a career path.

The resume that lists teams managed instead of things built.

And one thing comes alive. The person who was always capable but never permitted.

| This page is for them.

